

Anthoula Daniel has a PhD in Philology, issued by the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA), She served in Secondary Education; trained at the Secondary Education Officers Training School of Athens (SELME); attended theater classes at the Research Center "Desmoi" of Aspasia Papathanassiou; served at the Greek Ministry of Education as the chief editor of the magazine "Aerostato" ("Hotballoon") distributed to Greek children abroad; was posted to the Pedagogical Institute on the purpose of writing and evaluating textbooks, and of creating a C.D. ROM on Literature. She was also in charge of a documentary about Stratis Myrivilis. She has written various textbooks and extracurricular books such as novels, critics, studies on Elytis and Seferis and various essays on Poetry, Prose and Greek cinema. In 2020 she published the story "Decades end all together at the finish line" (published by Bacchikon 2020) and in 2021 the story "Mosaic above all" (published by Nikas 2021). She participated in Bookia - Book Festival at Zappeion- in 2019, 2020 (online) and 2021. She publishes articles, studies and critical texts on literature, history, visual art, theater, music and dance. She is a member of the Panhellenic Union of Philologists, the Writers' Society, the Papadiamantis Studies Society and the International Union of Greek Theater, Music and Dance Critics.